Measles- Rising cases in North West London (Action for schools)

Cases of measles are continuing to rise in London, including North West London. In order to manage this increased capacity, UK Health Security Agency colleagues are moving away from a full risk assessment of individual cases to only following up vulnerable contacts and high-risk settings.

Measles information pack for education and childcare settings

The UKHSA have produced a 'Measles information pack' for educational settings to follow.

This includes action to take now (such as continuing to support the uptake of the MMR \(measles, mumps and rubella\) vaccine), action to take if there are any probable or confirmed cases, template letters to send as required and factsheets to read.

By following the 'Measles information pack', this will enable educational settings to be more prepared if they do have cases and will also be able to respond in a more planned and informed way.
