Workshop overview

Join us for an enriching and collaborative workshop designed specifically for teaching assistants to enhance their skills and strategies in supporting neurodiverse children in schools. This day-long event is an excellent opportunity to:

- share best practices: Exchange valuable insights and experiences with fellow teaching assistants.
- problem grow: Gain deeper knowledge from expert Educational Psychologists (EP) and outreach teachers.
- explore strategies: Discover techniques to stay resilient, positive, adaptable, and self-compassionate in your professional role.

Workshop facilitators

- Educational Psychologist (EP): Expert insights into neurodiversity and its impact on learning.
- Outreach teachers: Practical strategies and real-life experiences from the field.

Why attend?

- Enhance your skills: Build on your current knowledge and discover new methods for supporting neurodiverse students.
- Collaborate and network: Connect with other teaching assistants and professionals in the field.
- Boost your resilience: Learn self-care techniques to maintain a positive and adaptable mindset.
